WASHINGTON, D. C., April 2.—House An effort was made by Sparks, of IIois, to fix the time for closing the bate on the Army Appropriation bill, grestions were made to have night and to restrict speeches to fifminutes, and to close the debate Objection was made to all propositions by Conger, of Michistating a number of gentlemen oth sides who have given notice of esire to speak, also that many have epared speeches and would not like be restricted to fifteen minutes, and, so, that but few members would be resent at night sessions. On both sides was declared that there was no desire shut off debate, and the Speaker gave as his experience that an unlimited ate was the shortest debate. That nion was endorsed by Kelly, of insylvania, who quoted the pro-b that "the longest way round was hortest way home," and who also ested that as this session was selfd luxury, there was no reason that luxury should be short. The on of Hawley, of Connecticut, was s the subject was of the most imnt character, it would be ungrabers to attend night sessions. ion by Mr. Stephens, of Georgia, a vote be taken at 2 o'clock Satur-, was voted down, and finally, on use then at 12:35 went into a commit Williams, of Wisconsin, who stated t two things were absolutely indisible-purity of the ballot-box and Cotton Operatives Strikers Submit ace at the polls, if it required all the wer of the State and general Gov't.; it power should be exercised whether be put forth under National or under jurisdiction. He had heard much alk about bayonet government but he knew of no government which did not ultimately on bayonet. Who ever talked about government without that ultimate resort in case of resistance flaw talked about utopia.

SENATE-Various bills were introluced; among them—one by Harris, providing for a treaty with the Repubof Mexico; Hoar, resolution cononary the Democratic programme legislation, laid on the table-yeas, 5; navs. 25. Blaine said at a future time Republicans would ask for a direct vote on the resolution. Saulsbury made a report against the admission of Bell, as Senator from New Hampshire, on the appointment of the Governor. It will come up for consideration to-morrow. At a quarter to one the Senate went into executive session.

The Case of General Fitz John Porter.

Washington, April 2.—The following are salient points in the official report in the case of General Fitz John rter as taken from the report itself. That the Recorder has used great dili gence for evidence, especially such as might appear to have bearing adverse to the claims urged by General Porter. That due care has been exercised, not to inquire into military operations or conduct of the officers of the Army of Virginia, further than was necessary to the full elucidation of the subject of ! investigation.

That new evidence in addition to old has placed beyond question many important facts before the subject of dispute, in respect to which radically erro us opinions were entertained by Porter's accusers and doubtless by the ourt-marshal that pronounced him The result has been to establish beyond a reasonable doubt all the fact essential to the formation of a correct judgment upon the merits of General Potter's case. The report is therefore made by the board General Potter's with entire unanimity, and withou loubt in their minds with reasons for conclusions, and what action and jus-tice requires should be taken by the President. The board, State evidence as representing itself under severa distinct heads, viz: first, imperfect and in some respects, erroneous statement facts due to partial and incorrect knowledge in possession of witnesses a the time of the Court-Martial, and the extremely inaccurate maps and errone ous locations of troops thereon, by which erroneous statements were made t sions; second, opinions and inferen ces of prominent officers based upon thi imperiect knowledge; third, far mor complete and accurate statements of facts now made by a large number witnesses from both contending force ourth, accurate maps of field of operaons and exact positions of troop hereon at different periods of time by the statements contradictory or irreconciliable, are shown to be harmonious and opposing The opinions are shown to have been based upon different views of the same military situations and finally conflict ing testimony relative to the plans of the operations; interpretation of orders motives of action and the relative degrees of responsibility for unfortunate results concerning the charge of which Gen. Porter was found guilty of not having moved his command on the nigh of August 27th, 1862, in obedience to orders from Gen. Pope. The Board re-port that it was a manifest physical impossibility to march over that road that night, and that nothing could have been gained by the attempt, and that it would have been wiser if Gen. Porter had delayed attempt still longer than ne did, and that he exercised very or linary discretion of corps commander. and that it was his plain duty to so ex

The report recites at much length and in detail the important events connect ed with the military operations of 29th of August, 1862, and among other important facts it is made clear that Porer's display of troops in the early part of the afternoon of the 29th gave rise to the belief on the Confederate side of an attack about to be made, and that uhder this belief Longsteert sent his reserves from the extreme left to the extreme right of his army, and in front of Porter, thus relieving the Union Ar my under other commanders from this Confederate force. Pope for orders and receiving no reply, not even information that the 430 orders had been sent to him; and, finally, informing his superior officers that if left to himself without orders, he would have to retire at night, for food and water were not accessible where he

These reports were sent not only fre quently, but early enough to insure the receipt of orders from Gov. Pope, or correct information from McDowell, if they had any to send him. It is generally understood that he does not desire this, however, and will not apply for it. He only wants a vindication. The report of the Board will be sent to Cengress and a bill passed relieving General Porter from all his present disabilities.

The report, which is addressed to the Secretary of war, is signed by J. M. Schofield, Major General United States Army, Alfred H. Terry, Brigadier General U. S. A. Geo. W. Getty, Brigadier General U. S. A.; Col. 3rd Artilleay.

LONDON, April 2.—The announce-ment that the Blackburn cotton operatives of all branches of trade at their meeting vesterday, agreed to submit to a reduction of their wages provided the masters would consent to restore the reductions of both this year and last year, upon the revival of trade, was incorrect. They decided to submit to a reduction unconditionally. Reducing Salaries in the Patent Office.

Washington Star, April 1. In order to overcome the deficiency in the Patent Office appropriation, which carrying the present force at the present salaries would cause, the Commissioner of Patents has determined to reduce the salaries of all the emplyees in the clerical divisions of the office 12 per cent for the last three months of the year. The examiners' salary cannot, of course, be touched. The only other way in which the diciency could be prevented is by means of a wholesale discharge The clerks who have escaped previous discharges are efficient, and their ser vices are needed. Those to be discharged would need to be selected by lot. It is thought the clerks would prefer a slight reduction of salary for a short time, rather than run the chance of osing office entirely. After these reductions are made there will, perhaps. still remain, a deficiency of a few thousand dollars which will be overcome by a few discharges.

Josephine belts are fashionable. What

In feminine shoes the tendency is to pointed toes, high heels, and scollops around the ankle. The bonnet cannot be described. It is one of those things that must be worn to be appreciated. The new parasols are unique and of celestial pattern, and quite as nice in side as they are outside. All full dress costumes, for receptions or carriage wear, are made with the longest kind of long trains.

New French flowers are represented to be as large as life and about five hundred times more natural. In jewelry there is nothing new or startling, but fresh importations may soon be expected. Drapery on the new Parisian costume is very intricate, but it must be admit-ed very stylish and effective. Short skirts, like dogs, must have their day. Already the ladies of fashion let out the hem of the garment. Yellow is one of the popular colors, and when the various shades are com-

Country-Doubts the Wisdom of Colored Education--- Paid Labor Cheaper than Slave Labor---The Negro not so Important a Political Factor---Very Hopeful of the Future. etc.

JEFFERSON DAVIS.

NEGRO AND NATIONAL

POLITICS.

In is generally believed in the North that I am chiefly responsible for that great calamity. I was but one of a vast body of the South, and no more responsible than thousands of others. The war would have taken place without me as inevitably as it did with me. It was one of those things which was sure to come in the progress of events. and in solving great problems of government upon this continent. He conceded expressly that the abolition of slavery would prove an ultimate good to the country; that it was a manifest advantage to the white race, for it would lead to the development of the South, and multiply her manufacturing and mechanical industries. From advantages of climate alone the future of the South is more promising than that of any other section of the country; but the condition of the present generation of the black race is all the worse, by reason of the abolition of slavery. He very much doubts the wisdom of attempting to educate the negro, and itterly disapproves of giving them the ballot. It was his opinion that wherever the negro race was found it must be as an inferior and servile race, and, in the long run, would give way to the superior race, under any and all circumstances.

Davis acknowledged, however, that he had changed his mind entirely on one question, viz: that the great staples of the South, cotton and sugar, could be produced with greater economy and in greater abundance by paid labor than by the labor of slaves. This has already been demonstrated, and that fact alone goes far to prove the advantage which daily communications with the outside the abolition of slavery has been to the world.—There is four new stores going whites.

Referring to the political status of the negro, Mr. Davis said the freedman had naturally been misled by politicians, thinking Northern men were their best friends, but of late years they seemed to have reached the opposite conclusion. and in the long run it would be found that the negro, having but little self-dependence, would vote in accord with the wishes and sentiments of those who employed him. For this reason the negro vote would be a less important factor in the politics of the future than Northern men supposed.

Referring to the oft-reiterated charges

ges of coercion and bulldozing of negro voters, he said he had no doubt there prevailing sentiment among Southern nen was one of greatest kindness and arbitrament of the sword, and he was very hopeful of the future of the counment, or that there could be any here after. One of the results of the war already apparent was that the South was less dependent upon the North than heretotore, for while she would supply great staples as before, her people began to produce a greater variety of Aleutian). The two latter are em-ployed at the Smithsonian Institution crops for their own use than ever be fore, and they would eventually com pete with other sections in manufac In this connection he remarked that while the South was destitute of mon ey and the value of real estate was great de contrast to a number of other young ly depressed, in a very short time the price of landed property would advance, because of its intrinsic value in merce. He remarked that the only disturbing elements to be discovered now were the efforts of extremists on the evident advance in civilization would pursue a moderate course, and made by the young braves. He also attend to its legitimate duties of legis lation for the good of the whole country, all the great social and industrial questions which were now a source of o much contention would soon settle themselves, and the country would be > at peace. In conclusion, he said: "You may ssure your people that I have no un kindness in my heart to them, or any of the people of the North. I am not the devil they have painted me. I have neither horns nor hoofs. And if they knew me, they would find I am very much one of themselves.

The Relations Between Presiden Hayes and the Senate.

Washington Capital. The situation relatively between the ohnson Administration and Congress and the relations now between the Hayes Adminstration and Congress, are almost identical in some respects-in one notably, the power to be exercised by the Senate over the nominations for office by the President. To-wards the last of Johnson's Administion the Senate dictated the class of polities from which the nominees should come, and no out and out Democrat could be confirmed. No out and out Radical, no Staiwart need apply to this Senate for confirmation. That's about settled. And the Stalwarts who with mental pro test, now reluctantly call upon or re cognize Mr. Hayes, come out of the White House and talk to us about "this man Hayes;" "your sniveling friend; "the man in the Executive Mansion," etc. The New York Times and the National Republican of this city "don't take stock" in Mr. Hayes, and are at all times, or pretend to be, apprehensive that he coalesces with the Damo crats. The Times says: "Unfortunately, the country's experience of Mr. Hayes does not warrant absolute confidence either in the soundness or the inflexibility of his purposes."

Members of the Cabinet to Have Seats in Congress.

Washington Capital. Senator Pendleton's bill to admit members of the Cabinet to occupy seats upon the floor of the Senate and House, which he introduced in the Senate this week, is a reproduction of his bill in the House when he was a member of that body some ten years ago. He made a speech in support of the plan and there it ended. The members of the House were at that time so engrossed with legislation growing out of the war that Mr. Pendleton could not induce general support of his measure. induce general support of his measure, notwithstanding leading members of both parties in private expressed their approbation of the proposition. The Old Commoner, as the Radicals dubbed him, Thad. But somehow or other the measure failed. There is reason to believe

NEW YORK'S LATEST SENSATION. A Young Lady of Old Knickerbocker Marries a "Bob Tail"

Horse-Car Driver.

from the New York World.

Many New York social circles are iscussing the romantic and unusual determination of a young lady, delicately nurtured and educated, to leave her home and seek a new life elsewhere with the driver of a city railway car, ly ever.

in some sections, but he believed the whose acquaintance was sought and whose honest and conscientious devolady was all that a young lady should Speaking of national affairs, he said he accredited the situation as decided by arbitrament of the sword, and the said a young lady should be. She did not consider herself, like Mrs. Gurney, a thwarted being, doomed to grasp for life in a hot-house full of prim and broad-brimmed Quakers. try. He did not believe there was an existing cause for sectional estrangeher fate; it came to her. In making visits to some especial friends she was accustomed to use a particular line of horse-cars, vaguely described the books of the Mayor's Marshal as cross-town line, and the cars were of the kind which are known by the unromantic name of "bob-tails." cars, however, be it noted, establish close relations, at least in a fiscal way. between the passenger and the driver. The latter, as he occupies his platform, finds suspended above his head a narrow mirror, which is so arranged that it reflects for him the faces of all passengers who enter the car, and which exhibits to him every action within it. Behind him is the patent change-spring through which the changeless passen ger passes the large coin or the greenback in order to receive his packet of convenient silver. Only the love which laughs at locksmiths but not at car-drivers can tell how passion should have come to birth amid such dull and commonplace details. Neither of the happy couple has been mirror and the change-spring, it is agreed, had the most to do with the introduction. In a short time there hap-pened the coincidence that the lady was always able when she left home for her visits to hail that especial car, the mirror of which, as she sat within, reflected to her the that especial driver, and to him the gra-ces of his charming passenger. She was of an old Knickerbocker stain, dashed with New England blood, and he was a "teasing, pleasing Irishman." The half-dimes which she surrendered every day to the cross-town company must have delighted the treasurer, who doubtless wandered, too, at the increasing good humor with which every Saturday night the happy car driver took his paltry trade dollar for wages. One day she quietly announced her approaching marriage to her guardian told the story of her affection, and asked that her proper portion of her inherited estate might be over to her. Remonstrances were made bitterly, sadly, earnesly, but in vain. The strangely united couple went quietly to the Catholic church inavenue—she in a modest walking dress and he in his new suit of chevoit—and exchanged their vows. There was no scene, no romancing, no dramatics. To him, doubtless, she was a goddess, but his wife. To her he was a car-driver, but yet, her quiet manly, altogether estimable husband. She sent her uncle her address on the second floor of a tenement flat in the avenue through which the cars and the driver of her fate held their route; and so each could see the other as the passing and re-passing came. They live together happily so far, in or out of the car, in or out of the flat, in or out of the city, matters not. But the doors of the old home are not opened to either. Such is the chap-ter of the first of the very latest romance in New York society.

Correspondence of the News.

Wake is a very considerable county.

There are ninety-four counties in North Carolina. Wake pays one dollar in every nineteen of the taxes paid into the State Treasury and cast not far short of one twentieth of the entire vote of the State. Yet she has but one Senator out of fifty and four members out of 120 in the lower house.

It is probable that in the next apportionment Wake will get two Senators. Wake county pays as State taxes as much as the fifteen westermost counties of the State, all put together. Those fifteen counties have four Senators and and seventy-five members. JUSTICE.

TALMAGE'S TRIAL.

BROOKLYN'S LATEST SENSATION. Review of the First Weeks Proceed ings.--Airing Private Buisness Quarrels-Old Features of the Trial-Who is Going to Pay the Bills? special Cor. Philadelphia Times,

BROOKLYN, N. Y., April 1. It is commonly reported that the lit-tle men who get up the prosecution of Talmage have an Elephant on their hands. This is a mistake. "Elephant' does not begin to meet the case. The trouble is that the thing has assumed mastodonic proportions. The brethren have at least a megalosaurus on hand, and the question is beginning to arise as to whether they have the magelosaurus or the megalosaurus has them. Five days have already been spent. The first consumed in legal argument as to the conduct of the case. The other four have been spent principally in hearing the vague and contradictory testimony of the principal witness brought by Talmage's accusers. Mr. Remington, the great gunmaker of liton, was the chief capitalist of the Christian at Work. He is an amiable gentleman, and is well known for the liberal help he has rendered to va-rious charitable enterprises. He has lropped a good many $1,000 down the bottomless hole of reckless and prodi-gal newspaper management. A "religious daily in New York, which got hold of the money of everybody whom t could bleed, cost him a fortune, and his investment in the Christian at Work was both large and unprofitable. While he was chief owner, and Tal-mage chief editor of the latter, there was a good deal of pulling and hauling and sparring between the various offices of the concern, and it was not altogether such a "happy family" as out-siders might have supposed. Reming-ton wanted more "higher life" doctripe in its columns, while Talmage ran rather to sparkling and the readable. As an instance of the prodigal simplicity with which the business was conducted, enough chromos was bought to last a dozen years, and many of them were the most awful kind of daubs, which nobody wanted. These and similar useless expenditures, such as the employment of twice or three times as many clerks as were needed, became, as it were, a mill-stone around the neck of the enterprise and threatened to sink it into bankruptcy. Remington's mo-ney began to run out, and he saw relief only in selling his paper. By this time he and Talmage were not in the closest sympathy. Remington offered the pa-per to a variety of people without the knowledge of Talmage and without any regard to Talmage's rights as editor. This has been clearly brought out by the testimony of the past week. On this particular point the examination may thus be epitomed:

Dr. Spear. "Mr. Remington, did you ever, unbeknown to Mr. Talmage, of-Mr. Remington. "No, never!"
Dr. Spear. "What! Never!"
Mr. Remington. "W-w-w-well,hard-

Remington's evidence proved exactly what the prosecution did not want him to prove. It showed clearly that he had violated his contract with Talmage, and that Talmage had a right to leave the paper just in the way he did. This was not merely shown by inference, but was distinctly admitted by the great gunmaker. Furthermore, he admitted that the charges he had made against Talmage were, for the most part, not based on his own actual knowledge, but on what he had been told by others, and on what he had picked up from the newspapers. The cross-examination of this witness by Dr. Spear and Mr. Millard on Thursday most wofully discon certed him. He was not used to such thing, and had expected that he would not be called on to stand any greater ordeal than the answering of questions concerning which prosecutor Crosby had fully posted him. Crosby com-plained that Spear and Millard were badgering his witness in bringing out from him the horrible contradictions which the cross-examination elicited But it was contended on the other sid that, as the prosecutors had proclaimed so loudly their consuming desire for the whole truth in the matter, the best way to get at the truth was to make the witness tell it.

HE HAD BEEN ILL AND WAS EXHAUSTED On Friday Mr. Remington explained to the court the why and wherefore of his embarrassment and contradictory behavior of Thursday by saying that he had been ill and physically exhausted, He also added: "I am here against my will." It is a pity that he had not on Thursday mentioned his illness, for had he done so the court would at once have let him off until he should regain his health, meantime hearing some of the other witnesses. Concerning his willingness in the matter of coming, he had previously declared that he came on Crosby's invitation, and that he did so entirely at his own expense. Had he been in the least unwilling, no power on earth could have compelled him. He is a Baptist, and Presbytery has no jurisdiction over him whatsoever to make him come. His peaceful home 250 miles from here. On Friday Mr Remington's health was better, prosecutor Crosby armed him with a newspaper to read, in order to prove whence and how he got the idea that Talmage had acted deceitfully and had told lies. Thus far, then, it is not sur prising that the conviction of all who have heard the gunmaker's testimon is that it amounts to the firing of blank cartridge, and nothing more.

ODD THINGS OF THE TRIAL.

The trial is not without its humorous sides. On the opening day two neatlypainted signs were erected, one at each door of entrance, worded exactly thus:

of Presbytery. The orthography was a butt for the jokes of all who saw it, whether clergy or laity. It brought to the minds of some the story of the old deacon wh prayed: "Lord, anynt our pastor with ile; yea, anynt him with the ile of Pat-Others thought they saw in it an allusion to Coney Island, where it is suggested Presbytery shall meet to conduct this trial after the first of June and continue it until cool weather drives it back to Brooklyn in the latter days of September. The church authorities took the signs down on Monday ing and had an "A" painted before "isle," and on Tuesday the amended orthography appeared.

EVERY INCH OF THE CHURCH PACKED. The attempt to sit with closed doors was made at an early stage of the proceeding, but was not successful. The accused declares that he has nothing to conceal and his friends favor the utmost publicity. The large gallery at the rear of the audience room has, however, been closed and thus about two hundred people are shut out. This is looked on as a piece of petty oppression on the part of the people who run the With the exception of this gallery and the pews reserved for Presby-tery and the witnesses, every inch of the church is packed. The people gen-erally behave themselves with decorum, although there are moments at which it is hardly possible to restain applause When symptoms of applause are heard, somebody gets up and threatens to make a motion to clear the house. As there is no Presbyterial sergeant-atarms the enforcement of such a resolu-tion would be an almost impossible

THE PROSECUTORS.

The two young gentlemen who are official prosecutors have rather more than they can manage. If it were not for the fact that Dr. Vandyke sits at their elbow they would not know what to do. Whenever they are stuck fast on any point of law they call on him for assistance. Brother McCullagh has made full proof of his entire lack of acmade full proof of his entire lack of acquaintance with legal affairs. On the first day, when Dr. Spear moved to strike out those charges which are clearly barred by the law of limitation of time, McCullagh pompously rose to his feet and declared his astonishment, saying that he had never heard of such saying that he had never heard of such a thing as that an accused person could move to quash an indictment. The fact that McCullagh had never heard of such a thing did not prevent the audience from joining in an uproarous laugh at his expense. He has made several other similarly unfortunate utterances, and has thus brought his legal knowledge into derision. In fact, almost whenever he opens his mouth he "puts his foot in it." JUDGES AND JURY. Ecclesiastical trials differ from civil ones in many respects, one of which is that the same individuals are judges and jurymen, and may also even be witnesses. Several queer instances have already occurred in which some of the members of Presbytery have in-capacitated themselves for voting. One of these gentlemen let a little ent out of the bag by alluding, in a brief speech, to the prosecution as "our side." Another, who always follows in the wake of Vandyke and votes as he votes, spoke of Talmage's side as "the other side." If these gentlemen, and others who have similarly committed them-selves, shall be allowed to vote on the final question of Talmage's guilt innocence it will show the public the nature and spirit of the attack on the

An unforeseen calamity now arises to tare in the Presbyterial face. It was forgotten that Presbytery hand no money. It is now painfully and alarmingly brought to notice. The cost of fuel and lights and stenographer and several janitors mounts up to an aggreyate of about forty dollars a day. Presbytery fears bankrumptey. Having gone into this business, it dare not back out. There is no means of raising the money except by appealing to the churches, Appeals for special collections for the expense of trying Talmage would be received by all except one or two of these churches with smiles of derisive ridicule, Nearly all of the people in these churches regard the charges against Talmage as frivolous and the prosecution simply a piece of pen to stop it, the trial will consume at east the whole of April.

BURGLARS IN RALEIGH.

Two Stores Entered Tuesday Night-The manner of Entrance ... 4 Striking Similarity-Only 814,000 in one Safe--

It would seem that there is a regularly organized and fully equipped gang of burglars in this city. Attempt at safe breaking evidently by the same party, were made on Wilmington street Tuesday night last. An entrance to the store of Mr. T. S. Love was effected by means of a ladder, which was in the rear of the store. A window pane in the upper story was smashed in, the in-side catch lifted and the window raised. There being no one sleeping in the building, THE BOLD ROBBERS descended the stairs to Mr. Love's of fice, which is in the rear of the the front being occupied by Mr. House as a grocery. From appearances it would seem they contined their work to Mr. Love's safe, which was tattooed with sears made by the use of a sharp instrument in the attempt to force the door open. Two holes were drilled in the door about half an inch deep, and i is very probable an entrance would have been made if persisted in. It is likely they apprehended danger and left their work unfinished. A News reporter asked Mr. Love what he knew about it: "Nothing in the world. I can't see what could have put them up to it There was only a small deposit of frac tional change in the safe. It may be that as I did not pay off my butchers yesterday, as usual, they might have thought my money was in the safe last night, as I said I would pay off to-dey.' It came to the reporter't ear that similar attempt had been made at MR. W. D. UPCHURCHE'S, ON WILMING

the same night. A visit was promptly paid Mr. Upchurch's store and the same story related: "Entered from the back way; by ladder, broken window-frame attempt to enter safe; a hole one inch deep was picked in the key-hole of the safe; went out by the back door, which was left open." There was only one difference in the situation of affairs at both places. Mr. Love's safe contained searcely any money, but Mr. Up-

Shirring is highly fashionable, and no new dress should be without it. Even new Spring eggs are frequently shirred. Something new in the line of French fans are those made entirely of fine wire beautifully painted in various designs. Bunting suits that were so last Summer will retain their hold on ly as ever. No particular success attends the efforts of those who desire to revive the very ancient fashion of "poke" bonnets such as they wore in 1492. Breton remains one of the most favor-the affections of young ladies as strong-fascinate to any alarming extent; but on Spring suits are "too lovely for anything. New wraps are long in the front and short in the back, with sleeves some-thing in the old dolman pattern. The material is cashmere in subdued colors.

LOUD CALL FOR A DEMOCRATIC LEADER TO TAKE THE BULL BY THE HORNS.

A Word About Garfield .-- Blackburn and Randolph Tucker Expected to Answer him .-- Debate promises to be Sensational.--The President apprehends no trouble.-Garfield Lauded by Republicans -But his position is Vulnerable.

Correspondence of the Newe. WASHINGTON CITY, April 1, 1879. The Debate on the army bill was resummed in the House to-day. The speeches are without particular significance. When asked by Price, of Iowa, "where the first gun was fired," Chalmers, of Miss., answered, at Har-per's Ferry. It was not the answer that Price wanted, and he retorted; John Brown was not trying to destroy the Union." "It was the CONSTITUTION," retorted Chalmers, and the Democrats and galleries applauded. He punctured some of the weak places in Garfield's speech. He did not believe the government would die, but if it did die at the hands of a fraudulent President who to-day held his office in defiance of the will of the people, the Democrats will of the people, the Democrats were not responsible. The speech was a fine rhetorical effort. He was followed by Frye, of Maine, one of the strongest men

Randolph Tucker, of Va., and Black-burn, of Ky., are expected to answer Garneld. The debate is growing very bister and promises to be the least bit sensational. The galleries are daily crowded to their utmost capacity.

WANTED, A LEADER

is advertized conspicuously on the Democratic side of the House.

The Democracy never so much as now needed an Ajax in the halls of Congress to repel the base charge of revolution which is being hurled with force and effect by the Republicans. No doubt the Republicans feel that the Presidential crisis has come, and have planted themselves boldy on the old sectional issues as the only vital ones upon which they can make a National campaign. It will be observed that in the terrible phillippic made by Garfield yesterday he never at once attempted to argue the merits of the Democratic position, but confined himself solely to tearing passions to tatters, and to have the cry born to the breeze that the Democrats again threaten the nation's life through a procees of national starvation. What is needed here now is a man of nerve, conviction and horse-sense, who for th nonce can let law go to the dogs, and tear away the hollow mask of hipocracy prosecution to gratify a few of his enemies who happen to control enough voting power in Presbytery to carry the thing through. As the days roll on the expense rolls up. Unless something not now contemplated shall happen to step it the trial will govern the expense of the President, who is candid enough, he does not appreciate any of the dan-gers which Garfield affects to believe and so elaborately portrays. The truth is that the Republicans are not at all sure that the President will veto the appropriation bills in the shape in which the Democrats will pass them, and every speech made from their stand point will be with a view to coerce him to their way of reasoning. When the Army bill reaches the Senate Blaine will make an elaborate speech, which he has already prepared, which will depict the new rebellion, as it is called, in even sharper shades than Garfield's speech of yesterday, and by which he trusts to preeipitate an exciting personal discussion between himself and Southern Senators. The occasion is one which will again give him the opportunity to display that audacity and boldness for which heis noted and he means to profit by it.

GARFIELD'S SPEECH appears in the Record to-day.

The Republicans, of course, are glorifying Garfield greatly and are boasting that his speech cannot be answered. They will probably learn their mistake before the week is out. The truth of the matter is that Gar-field's position is exceedingly vulnerable. His speech gained much in effect from the dramatic force of its delivery, but much from the fact that no Democrat was prepared to tear the mass from his ingenious sophistries, to straighten out his distorted facts, smite him with his own record and the record of his party. The failure of the Democratic spokesmen to be ready for just such a speech, who neglected to post themseves on the entire record in Congress of this law was a grievous mistake; but it was a mistakethat can be remedied, and there is little doubt but that it will be remedied. The basis of the whole speech was assumption. He assumed that the President will veto the bills-a future event of which Congress can take no cognizance, and of which the Republicans themselves have no knowledge; and then he assumed that the Democrats would stop the supplies—a matter which has not heen and can not be determined until the veto message is laid before the House, and which may not have to be determined at all.On these assumptions he raised the cry of revolution, and builded up a vivid.

How LONG WILL IT LAST.
That the debate is to be very extended is apparent. Forty names are already entered upon the list, and it is known that many prominent Democrats whose names have not yet been entered to speak. It may be two weeks before it goes to the President.

MR. JEFFERSON DAVIS reiterates to the Boston Herald what everybody understands that want to understand, that he was no more responsible for the late war than thousands of others. His views on other topics will be read with interest in this morning's NEWS.

GEN. Garfield's speech, charging revolutionary purposes on the Democracy, occupies nearly three columns of fine newspaper type. A paragraph suffices to state the fact that he once sold himself for $5,000 to a ring of Washington contractors.

TWENTY-FIVE or thirty members of the Indiana Legislature have disgraced that body by an evening debauch at a disreputable Indianapolis variety hall. STATE elections will be held in April in Rhode Island, Michigan, and Wisconsin, and on April 15th an election will be held in the 6th Congressional district of Texas to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Gustave Schleicher, democrat. In speaking of the great New York speculator the Springfield Republican says: "It is generally agreed in New in Wisconsin. York that Jay Gould, from a position of financial strait, placed himself very much at ease by his recent sale of Union Pacific stock. He retained a large interest, and at the same time secured protection for it from Wall street forays by involving the Keene interest with himself. He retains also a large interest in Kansas Pacific, which he is said to contemplate pushing through into southern Utah, from which it may be an important line, some day, to the Pacific coast or south into Mexico. He seems to have run his muck against the world pretty successfully, and to be anxious now to repair the marks and scars of a not very scrupulous career and save himself from falling a prey to others. Mr. Gould apparently has a high appreciation of the Tribune management,-to go so long without dividends upon his stock and maintain the attitude of non-interference which is said to characterize his proprietorship. said to characterize his proprietorship.

Less than a decade ago the Republican pariy was in full power, with its eaders possessed of the idea that destiny hand set a mark upon them and their uccessors as the rulers of the republic or all time to come. It was argued that the party which had "saved the country" should always rule it, and thus the party managers apparently came to believe that they were divinely appointed, and that anything they might do would be justifiable. And so, with a recklessness that would seem amazing but for the impelling cause, they set about enacting all sorts of illadvised and oppressive legislation in whatever manner best suited their convenience, obnoxious laws were passed with impunity as riders to appropriation bills and the use made of the previous question was, to say the least, scientific. In effect the powers of the General Government came to be delegated to a cabal of Senators; which has been happily characterized as the Senatorial Group. The truth is that under the leadership of these infallible statesmen precedents were established as regards both number and character which could scarcely be improved upon by the wicked Democrats, no matter how far they may be led by partisan zeal. The Chandlers and Blaines and Logans seemed to forget that this is a governernment of the people, and that the tables are at all times liable to be turned upon the powers that be. This they have now learned from experience, which, after all, is the only efficient teacher. Regarded in the light of history, it would seem that a vast deal of unconscious assurance is exhibited by the Republicans in Congress in complaining of the Democratic endeavor to expedite generally legislation by fixing eer as bids for the kitchen furniture. appendices to appropriation bills. CURRET OPINION.

One of the reasons why Messrs. Dyspeptics find it just the remedy for their troubles. Mothers and daughters have long since discovered in its use a "panacea" for their worst ills; and now we have the testimonies of two eminent ministers of the gospel, from Southern cities, setting forth its specific effects in other more dreaded and troublesome diseases. Rev. John F. Mayne, Theological Seminary, Columbia, S. C., writes: "Am afflicted with that terrible disease, 'Diabetes;' am using the 'Seven Springs Mass' with a considerable degree of relief; is the only remedy I have yet found to suit my case; want to continue its use until a cure is effected if possible. FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint, DYSP SPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

DAIN in the right side, under the l edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain. accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss o' memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant, The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to nim, yet he can scarcely summon up tortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER

DR. C. McLane's LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

The Kentucky Times has the following to say of Mr. D. C. Dudley, who left this city a few weeks ago to assume charge of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, at Danville, Ky.:

"Mr. D. C. Dudley, the new principal of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, arrived Friday last, and has assumed charge of the Institution. Mr. Dudley has already made a pleasant impression on those who have met him, and particularly those connected with the Institute. The Mutes are much gratified with his pleasing manners and kind salutations. The afflicted ones are now prepared to appreciate Mr. Dudley, as the Institute has virtually been without a principal since Mr. Jacobs' death. We cordially receive Mr. Dudley, and wish him every success in his new field of labor.

Motion or progress is a universal condition of created being. There is nothing in a state of rest, there is no standing still. The planets are in motion, and so are the suns round which they rest." So it is with the business man, he "cannot rest." To be successful he must work, work, work, and he must keep his business prominent. He must advertise, he must use in these progressive days unst use in these progressive days, make type, printers ink. Advertising make business and business makes erchants, and merchants build cities. Then advertise the growth and progress of your trade and the goods you keep it will add largely to your own and the general prosperity.

The wonderful growth of our trade, the great commercial advantages of our city, its schools and other attractions should be made known. Give us the facts and let us write up your business and its history, it is the best advertisement you can get. This is progress.

Tucker Hall Last night.

One of the best performances which has been presented to the people of Raleigh for a long time was that of last night at the Opera House. The acting of Mr. McWade as Rip Van Winkle was a piece of artistic excellence that is very seldom equalled. His rendition of his part displayed the rare qualities of the true artist in the surrender of self to character he impersonated. The quaint humor was so intimately blened and interwoven with the deepest paths that the smiles and tears of the audence were continually intermingled and the transitions from pathos to humor so sudden and complete they were at times absolutely painful to the audience. The recognition scene when he meets his daughter Steenie, after his sleep of twenty years, was one of the finest pieces of acting it has ever been our pleasure to witness.

The play will be repeated to-night. and we trust to a large audience, which it so richly merits.

Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming, the average of life being les-sened every year, without any reason-able cause, death resulting generally from the most insignficant organ. A this season of the year especially, a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to over-look the dangers attending it and often find too late that a fever or lung trouble has already set in. Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while had Boschee's German Syrup been taken, a cure would have resulted and a large bill from a doctor been avoided. For all diseases of the throat and lungs, Boschee's German Syrup has proved itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine. Every Druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect. Over 950,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known.
